ORDER TO SHOW CAUSE

Why Sale of Real and Personal Property Should Not be Made.

In the Superior Court of the State of California, in and for the County of Sonoma.

In the matter of the Estate of Antonio Franzinelli, deceased.

JOHN PIVA, THE ADMINISTRATOR of the estate of Antonio Franzinelli, deceased, having filed his petition herein praying for an order of sale of the real and personal estate of the said decedent, for the purposes therein set forth, it is therefore ordered by the said Court, that all persons interested in the estate of said deceased appear before the said Superior Court on Monday, the 27th day of January, 1908, at ten o'clock in the forenoon of said day, at the court room of the said Superior Court, Department No. 2 thereof in the City of Santa Rosa, County of Sonoma, to show cause why an order should not be granted to the said administrator to sell so much of the real and personal estate of the said deceased, at private sale, as shall be necessary; and that a copy of this order be published at least once a week for four successive weeks in the SONOMA INDEX-TRIBUNE, a newspaper printed and published in said County of Sonoma.

Dated December 24th, 1907.

Dan Cupid—Magician.

By HARRY HOUDINI.

Copyrighted, 1907, by C. H. Sutcliffe.

In agony of apprehension Williams started to arrange his modest conjuring apparatus. A few hours earlier his debut as a parlor entertainer had been a matter of joyous and ambitious anticipation. Now the brocaded walls of Senator Morgan's music room fairly threatened to close in and choke him, while the fragrance of hothouse flowers oppressed him strangely. He wondered how he had ever dared to ask the vaudeville agent who supplied Mrs. Morgan and other fashionable hostesses with talent to let him substitute for Thorley, the eminent magician who had fallen a victim to la grippe. Of course he would fail, Mrs. Morgan would be furious, the agent would never give him another engagement, and his career would come to an ignominious end. The laughter and chatter of the children, dancing on the other side of the folding doors, sounded like the deathknell of his long cherished hopes.

"Can I help you in any way? I am Miss Morgan. The servants are all busy with supper—and I thought—perhaps"—

Young Williams had never thought of needing help, but as he faced the clear eyed, flower-like girl and the echo of her well modulated voice rang in his ears he felt that his one hope of succeeding lay in her presence. Men and women wiser in the social world than Frank Williams had fallen under the spell of Helen Morgan's rare sympathy and charm and wondered how this girl of high ideals and gentle manners could be the daughter of Senator Morgan, ponderous with the arrogance of newly acquired wealth, and Mrs. Morgan, who radiated commonplace attributes as her recently purchased diamonds scintillated light.

At Frank's faltering thanks Helen Morgan began quietly, but deftly, to carry out his instructions, placing a light gilt table here, a taboret there, and where it would be within reach of the conjurer's hand a candle or a gleaming revolver. And, though afterward Frank Williams could not tell how it had happened, before the settings for his act were prepared the girl had drawn out his tale of half tragic struggle, the prosaic, hard headed father storming over the visionary, inexplicable nature of his youngest son, the loyal mother secretly brooding over and abetting this odd chick of her little flock, his constant endeavor to learn the secrets of magic and then to secure a hearing, even the rented dress suit and the gold watch which had been pawned that very afternoon to buy bonbons and gilded trinkets to distribute among his youthful auditors. And as he finished it seemed to Helen Morgan that she stood in the presence of a struggling genius. She had read such stories of poets, musicians and inventors. The tawdriness of the conjuring world faded, and tenderly her hand rested on the white satin cover of the young man's servante. It was a bit of his mother's wedding dress, sacrificed gladly to her son's art, a rich fabric yellowed with age and finished with strips of rare old lace.

The performance was a great success. The children were duly mystified and more than delighted with the showers of trinkets and bonbons which apparently came from an inexhaustible source. Mrs. Morgan had condescended to express her appreciation, a footman had served a supper of such rare delicacies that Frank had longed to pack them all up with his paraphernalia and take them to his mother, and now as he walked down the broad avenue leading from the house he felt as if the house behind him was fairyland indeed and Helen Morgan its princess.

But he was roused from his dream by a grim faced butler, who came hurrying after him.

"You're to come back to the house," was the brusque order, and, re-entering his fairyland, Williams faced Senator Morgan, a glowering figure, in the foreground and Mrs. Morgan, a hysterical one, in the background. But in the eyes of the third he read pity, the same tender pity which he had seen in her eyes when Helen Morgan had stooped to pick up his trick rabbit as the frightened animal, escaping from his pocket and trembling at the shouts of the children, had run to the girl for protection.

"It's jail for you, young man, unless you produce my wife's rings. She left them behind the rock crystal vase in the music room, and we don't propose to have them 'disappeared' as you do handkerchiefs and rabbits."

The scene which followed was a horrible nightmare to the young magician—his own protestations of innocence drowned in Mrs. Morgan's hysterics, Senator Morgan's orders for an officer, Helen's pleading for time to search and finally the discovery of the rings by a maid in Mrs. Morgan's dressing room. And when it was all over Williams was thrust out in the night through a side entrance, feeling more like a thief than an acquitted man. Then suddenly a gentle hand fell upon his arm, and a gentler voice murmured in his ear:

"Just a minute, please. I want to tell you how sorry I am. I hoped this would be the greatest night of your life"—

For one long minute the young man who had his own way to make and the girl whose future had been assured so far as wealth could accomplish this feat looked into each other's eyes. And the soul of the man suddenly born, went out to the divine tenderness of innate womanliness which is a greater power than mere physical beauty. He spoke quietly, but with new found confidence.

"It has been a wonderful, wonderful night to me, and some day I am coming back to tell you why."

* * * * * * *

Under the chaperonage of a dowager duchess who knew how to turn her title to financial account Helen Morgan was "doing" the London season. In a Mayfair drawing room she sat, and beside her was a man with a monocle, an English accent above reproach and a patronizing air. Of course the Morgan millions would mean the remantling of his ancestral but crumbling castles, but then the utter indifference of this girl irritated him even while it commanded his admiration.

"I suppose you saw Erskine in Paris. He's been the go over there—made by the American set, I understand. They say it's his manners as much as his art that got the women all going. He never speaks during his performance and has the most inscrutable eyes. Never could understand why women went in so heavily for eyes. Conjurers bore me, as a rule, but I'm curious to see this man."

Helen Morgan hardly heard what the man with the monocle was saying.

"Erskine!"

In a secret drawer of her jewel case there lay a card, "Frank Erskine Williams," the card of the man who had never come back, never sent her a message in five years, the man who had forgotten! But, no; this could not be he, for the man who had promised had a ready tongue—yes, a ready tongue, as all men had—who promised.

A flutter of fans and a murmur of subdued interest announced that the lion of the evening had arrived. A quick inclination of the head, a snapping of long, slender fingers, and the performance was under way. With lightning rapidity and wonderful deftness the conjurer worked, and the breathless audience watched, not so much the tricks as the unsmiling lips, the inscrutable eyes, which seemed not to see either the sea of faces upraised to his nor even the assistant who did his unspoken bidding.

Only one person in the fashionable audience saw something more, and that a quivering, blue eyed girl who for one brief second had met and held the magician's glance and seen burning in those inscrutable eyes a fire which had burned there on a night five years before, a fire lit centuries agone in the eyes of the world's first man—Adam.

The assistant called for a ring with which his master would work a new trick. Mechanically Helen Morgan handed him a magnificent hoop of pearls. Erskine took the ring gravely, raised a silver hammer and apparently smashed the trinket into a thousand pieces on an anvil of curiously wrought silver. Then he produced a sealed casket of water, in which swam a goldfish, and in the mouth of the fish he found the hoop of pearls. But the ring was not returned to its owner by the assistant. Instead, as the room rang with applause, the magician himself walked quietly down the aisle, formed by the parting of many silken skirts, and placed the ring on the girl's trembling white hand. Not even the man with the monocle noticed that the conjurer for an instant held the slim fingers in his with a pressure that threatened to crush them, nor did he dream that within the girl's palm lay another ring at which she dared not look.

Somewhat awkwardly she slipped on her long white glove. She was so deeply engaged in this operation that she did not even see the conjurer as he left the improvised stage. In the privacy of the boudoir hours later she held the conjurer's ring under the light of a blazing electrolier.

"Such an odd—I was almost going to say ugly—ring," she murmured as she slipped it on her finger and turned it this way and that. A diamond, an emerald, an amethyst, a ruby, another emerald, a sapphire and a topaz formed the brilliant half hoop. Then suddenly her cheeks burned crimson. She had read the story of the many colored gems. Their first letters spelled "dearest," the message of the man who had not forgotten his promises.

With her chocolate the next morning came an oddly shaped French gray envelope, bare of crest or monogram.

"Forgive my temerity of last night," ran the message within, "but for years I have been carrying that ring in my pocket, waiting for our meeting. They were the first gems I bought when success came my way, and I gathered them one by one, each perfect in its way and worthy the one woman in all the world. Yet last night I heard you were to marry the Earl of Warburton. If this is true, do what you will with the ring. If it is but an idle rumor, drop me a single word to the Hotel Cecil, 'Come.'"

Erskine laid aside the morning papers, heralding him as the fashionable world's new found idol, to answer a summons to the phone. The voice at the other end of the wire faltered, then grew firm and strong: "Come. I could not wait to write"

Pythagoras.

Undoubtedly Pythagoras was one of the greatest men of all time. We know very little of him, but we know enough to warrant us in giving him a place in the front rank of the world's thinkers. He was the first moral philosopher and one of the earliest of the world's mathematicians. It would require too much space to go into the details of the celebrated theory of "numbers," but by "numbers" Pythagoras meant nothing more or less than mathematics, as though he had said, "The first principle of all things, physically speaking, is mathematics."—New York American.

STEEL PLANT PERILS.

Recklessness a Psychological Factor That Must Be Considered.

Recklessness is certainly a psychological characteristic of men in steel plants. All tradition teaches them to be reckless. The very example of their superiors teaches them to be reckless. The assistant superintendent of the plant that the Illinois Steel company maintains at Joliet stepped on an unprotected gear and lost his leg just after he had warned his men not to be guilty of any such culpable negligence of their own safety. I am willing to admit the existence of culpable negligence altogether apart from the negligence of the company. And not only that, but I am also willing to give a specific illustration.

I was standing one day on the platform of a blast furnace. All at once unexpectedly, I heard the four whistles that indicate danger. There was a "hang" in the furnace. The whirling eddying mass of ore, coke and lime stone in the high interior of that furnace had got caught somewhere, somehow, and was refusing to come down. When it did come down there would be a crash and perhaps an explosion.

I ran and got behind a brick pillar. On coming into the plant that morning I had signed a piece of paper, just the same kind of a piece of paper that every visitor signs, saying that I would not hold the Illinois Steel company responsible for anything that might happen to me. I reflected that nobody would profit by my demise. But observe what the other men around that blast furnace did!

I could see them as I peered out from behind my brick pillar. Those of them who were already in front of the furnace looked up at it with an expression of profound curiosity on their faces. Two other men who had been standing at the back of the furnace ran all the way round it and came out in front. There they all stood hurling their mute interrogatories at the crafty, reticent volcano that might nevertheless the next moment hurl forth an indignant answer at their heads!—Everybody's Magazine.

BLOOD PRESSURE.

The Determination of Its Relation to Mental States.

In addition to those bodily movements which are called "voluntary" various bodily phenomena which are clearly involuntary accompany violent mental excitement. The blush of shame, the distinctive flushes of joy and of anger, the pallor and sweat of fear, the tears of grief and the "creeping" of the flesh provoked by horror are familiar examples. The respiration is quickened by joy and retarded by anxiety, and the feeling of relief finds expression in a deep sigh. Violent emotions often disturb the digestion. The heart "bounds with joy," is paralyzed by horror, "leaps to the throat" in terror. The connection between the heart and the emotions is so intimate that the heart was long regarded as the seat of the soul.

Most of these involuntary physical concomitants of mental excitement are brought about by a special part of the nervous system, the sympathetic nerve and its branches, which ramify to every part of the body. The best known branches are those that govern the dilatation of the blood vessels, which are profoundly affected by mental states. These phenomena are susceptible of exact quantitative determination by means of a method devised by the Italian physiologist Mosso. The result is fairly accurate measurement of the variation of blood supply in the brain. The subject is laid on a board which is balanced on a fulcrum at the center of gravity. When the subject is quiet and undisturbed the board lies horizontal. Now, if an unpleasant sensation or emotion is induced in the subject his head is involuntarily elevated, indicating diminution in the quantity of blood in the brain. An agreeable sensation of emotion produces the opposite effect.—Scientific American.

The Modesty of Women

Naturally makes them shrink from the indelicate questions, the obnoxious examinations, and unpleasant local treatments, which some physicians consider essential in the treatment of diseases of women. Yet, if help can be had, it is better to submit to this ordeal than let the disease grow and spread. The trouble is that so often the woman undergoes all the annoyance and shame for nothing. Thousands of women who have been cured by Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription write in appreciation of the cure which dispenses with the examinations and local treatments. There is no other medicine so sure and safe for delicate women as "Favorite Prescription." It cures debilitating drains, irregularity and female weakness. It always helps. It almost always cures. It is strictly non-alcoholic, not a secret, all its ingredients being printed on its bottle-wrapper; contains no deleterious or habit-forming drugs, and every native medicinal root entering into its composition has the full endorsement of those most eminent in the several schools of medical practice. Some of these numerous and strongest of professional endorsements of its ingredients, will be found in a pamphlet wrapped around the bottle, also in a booklet mailed free on request, by Dr. R. V. Pierce, of Buffalo, N. Y. These professional endorsements should have far more weight than any amount of the ordinary lay, or non-professional testimonials.

The most intelligent women now-a-days insist on knowing what they take as medicine instead of opening their mouths like a lot of young birds and gulping down whatever is offered them. "Favorite Prescription" is of KNOWN COMPOSITION. It makes weak women strong and sick women well.

Dr. Pierce's Medical Adviser is sent free on receipt of stamps to pay expense of mailing only. Send to Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y., 21 one-cent stamps for paper-covered, or 31 stamps for cloth-bound.

If sick consult the Doctor, free of charge by letter. All such communications are held sacredly confidential.

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets invigorate and regulate stomach, liver and bowels.

Let Us Celebrate.

If we would do something worth while it is none too soon to suggest that we carry through plans for a big celebration upon the completion of our New City Hall. Make it no local affair, but proclaim it a State gathering upon the historic ground where the prophecy of our pioneer fathers is being enacted. Throw open our gates and show our outside fellows that the new and proud era we are enjoying has blossomed. Let it be known that Old Sonoma is New Sonoma, and that on historic land is growing up a new generation proud of its historic and romantic background but fraught with the spirit of the times. No better site than the old Plaza needed the new generation for its modern structure for municipal purposes—the old Plaza dedicated with generous impulse by General Vallejo, who, perhaps, in his mind's eye saw it even then to be some day graced with a structure of beauteous architecture.

No better site needed the sons of to day than the ground from whence the hardy pioneers flung the Bear Flag to the breeze and made Sonoma the nucleus of the proud State-to-be. All that California is to-day she can thank Sonoma for. Why then should she not come to pay homage to acreage whereon the flower of her people first took root. Her patriotism and her poetry demand it. Let us then throw open wide our gates and invite our neighbors to a fete which shall do us proud. We must plan for it. We must prepare for it, and would suggest that our readers discuss through these columns their idea of a fitting celebration. Let it be a community affair as for central management—by community meaning the entire valley. Let our daughters in and out of club take active part and our sons, whether native or foreign, fraternal or freeman, unite in civic pride and historic appreciation to make it a grand and long-to-be-remembered day.

McKowen's Parole.

If a flash of wickedness lands a man in prison or if crime steeped in his blood through inheritance and environment makes of him a convict and his subsequent conduct suggests parole, it seems humane and justifiable to give him a chance, but when men like McKowen, the embezzling secretary of the State University, are meted out six years punishment, the light sentence for his willful and very intelligent transgression does not seem right.

It would be very interesting to know just what scale of discrimination is in use by the Prison Directors, for surely it does not seem to be right for "pull" to govern this most important matter. McKowen is a normal man, an intelligent person with good intellect, but not good enough to hold very bad morals in check. He transgressed with his eyes wide open, although he knew the importance of his position and what he owed society, in which he figured so prominently. He systematically stole State moneys to gratify his love of the game, knowing full well that the name he was signing to the university diplomas of the State's young men and women would some day be the autograph of a discovered criminal, yet still he plunged and finally came the expose. He was pronounced guilty and from his respected position as secretary to the Board of Regents dropped on the roster where numbers, not names, designate individuals.

His hypocritical scrawl is a blot on many a fair diploma, and he a man of position and education went the way of the poor, advantageless weak-minded victim of race track buzzards. He graced the penitentiary sure enough and it is a shame to deprive that institution of such a flower, but now in the heyday of the racing season he is let out to sniff the dust which rises over the fence at Emeryville to remind him of the joys of long odds which he almost cashed and the tips which might have made things so different if they had only been straight. If he had only have been straight the world and tips good and bad would have taken care of themselves. With his alloted time for penance, McKowen might have emerged cured of the evil of his ways but six years was none too long and it does not appear that parole was called for.

By Loma's Shore.

[On the unveiling of the monument to the Bennington heroes.]

Sentinel of death, forevermore
Guard our dear hero's by Loma's shore;
Nor heed the moan of wind or sea, they seem to weep,
But thou thy vigil keep
Constant, strong, sure as the night
We were robbed of these that they might fight a better fight for Right,
Proud youths of America, much thou didst give
Thy youth in itself, when 'tis priceless to live.
And Death stalked so ruthless nor came on the field
Arrayed as for battle, while sword ye did wield,
In the midst of the fray ye were willing to die,
Death only scoffed, saw fit to deny
Affrighted the dove of peace hovering there,
And fixed on the mast his ill-omened glare,
Death sought them out there on the Bennington gray,
In the midst of calm peace, yes mark the array—
Seventy graves where we laid them away,
Sentinel of death, forevermore
Guard our dear heroes by Loma's shore.

THE introduction of tailor establishments and dressmaking parlors on the Atlantic liners is obviously made neccessary by the swells encountered en route.

$100 REWARD $100

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.

Why Colds are Dangerous.

If you would be immune from disease, keep the system healthy. Each successive cold weakens the constitution and renders infectious diseases more liable. Chamberlain's Cough Remedy will cure your cold promptly and restore the system to its normal condition. For sale by L. S Simmons.

Deafness Cannot Be Cured

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucuous lining of the Eustachian Tube When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars Reward for any case of deafness (caused by Catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars free.

UNITED STATES COURT OF CLAIMS

The Publishers of Webster's International Dictionary allege that it "is, in fact, the popular Unabridged thoroughly re-edited in every detail, and vastly enriched in every part, with the purpose of adapting it to meet the larger and severer requirements of another generation."

We are of the opinion that this allegation most clearly and accurately describes the work that has been accomplished and the result that has been reached. The Dictionary, as it now stands, has been thoroughly re-edited in every detail, has been corrected in every part, and is admirably adapted to meet the larger and severer requirements of a generation which demands more of popular philological knowledge than any generation that the world has ever contained.

It is perhaps needless to add that we refer to the dictionary in our judicial work as of the highest authority in accuracy of definition; and that in the futures in the past it will be the source of constant reference.

JACK LONDON STILL UNHEARD FROM

Fears that the "Snark" Has Been Lost and that He and His Wife Have Perished.

As announced in these columns several weeks ago, the relatives of Jack London, the celebrated author, and his vivacious young wife, in Oakland and Glen Ellen, are greatly alarmed for their safety. Six weeks have now passed since last heard from and no letters have been received by his relatives from him. Heretofore London who is under contract with the Ladies' Home Journal and other Eastern magazines to furnish them "stuff" monthly, has written by every steamer arriving in San Francisco, and this long silence on his part portends evil, and his relatives fear that the little Snark has been swallowed up by the sea and that all on board have perished.

LEG BROKEN BY KICKING HORSE.

G. Mascioroni of Sears' Point is Again Victim of Serious Accident.

G. Mascioroni, the well-known dairyman of Sears' Point, while doctoring a sick horse on his ranch on Friday of last week, was kicked by the animal and had one of his legs broken between the ankle and knee. He was taken to Petaluma for surgical treatment and will be confined to his rooms in the Continental Hotel in that city for some time.

Mr. Mascioroni seems to be a victim of accidents and has met with quite a number of serious ones during his life time. Some years ago while driving a mower on his farm the horses ran away. He was thrown from his seat and falling in the path of the machine was frightfully cut about the hips. For a long time his life was despaired of but he eventually pulled through, but has suffered more or less from the effects of that accident ever since.

This latter accident came at a time when he had about completely recovered from the former accident. He is a prominent Druid and his every want is being looked after by his Sonoma and Petaluma brethren.

Illegal to Catch Young Trout.

The impression has prevailed in this and other sections of the county that the close season for trout does not go into effect until February 1st. Laboring under this impression quite a number of fishermen have been catching trout in the streams of the county, under the false inpression that they were young steelheads. This, according to Deputy Fish and Game Commissioner A. F. Lea, is unlawful and lays the fishermen liable to arrest and conviction. A hint to the wise is sufficient.

Sells His Trotting Mare

W. C. Nolan of this place has sold his trotting mare to J. W. Zibbell of Petaluma. The animal is said to have been bought by Mr. Zibbell for an eastern turf man. The price obtained was $550.

City Taxes

The second installment of city taxes will become delinquent on the first Monday in February at 6 o'clock p. m. If not paid before that time a penalty of 5 per cent will be added to the amount.

Potatoes are Down

Early rose potatoes were selling in San Francisco and Oakland yesterday at 2½ cents per pound. This is 50 per cent cheaper than they were quoted at in January of last year.

Dr. S. S. Bogle of Santa Rosa has been re-appointed county physician by the Board of Supervisors.

Kick Over High School Tax

Now that the time for paying the special High School tax is at hand a mighty wail has gone up from taxpayers of high and low degree. The tax was levied for the purpose of erecting a new building for housing the High School and to take the place of the edifice destroyed by the earthquake of 1906. It must be admitted that the tax, which is a direct one on the people, is not to the liking of any taxpayer, and would have been greatly lessened had the bond proposition carried at the polls when submitted to the electors. As the High School Trustees simply had to have a building and could not get it the one way they had to resort to the other. We will know better next time,

Theo. A. Bell Denies.

Ex-Congressman Theodore A. Bell of Napa is out in a published statement denying that he was ever paid a fee, either large or small, by the California Safe Deposit and Trust Company. This denial is being generally circulated by our Democratic cotemporaries and as Mr. Bell has been done a gross injustice by the canard, we think it no more than fair to him that our Republican cotemporaries do likewise. This paper while opposing Mr. Bell politically in his Congressional and Gubernatorial campaigns of two and four years ago, admires him for his many fine qualities of heart and mind and when he denies that fee story we believe him, his politics to the contrary notwithstanding. Nothing is to be gained politically by mud-slinging.

VALIDITY OF SONAMA'S SALOON ORDINANCE WILL BE TESTED.

Suit Brought in the Superior Court to Have it Declared Null and Void.

Through attorney Thos. J. Butts of Santa Rosa, suit was commenced in the Superior Court of this county last Saturday by Jas. C. O'Rourke, proprietor of the City Hotel, and eighteen other business men of this place, to contest the validity of the saloon ordinance passed several months ago by the City Trustees.

The ordinance in question places all kinds of restrictions on the hotel and saloon men in this town and also raises the liquor license from $60 to $120 per annum, payable semi-annually in advance.

The ordinance, when put upon its final passage, received the votes of Trustees Hotz, Bates and Wagnon and was opposed by Trustees Breitenbach and McDonell, who claimed that it was specious legislation, unsuited to this community and injurious to the general business of Sonoma.

However that may be, the hotel and saloon men and others whose business interests are affected by the ordinance became very much incensed over what they conceived to be an effort on the part of a majority of the Trustees to ruin their business and drive the summer trade elsewhere, and they have taken up the gauntlet laid down by them and will fight the ordinance in the courts to the bitter end.

Balances in Road Funds.

County Treasurer Glenn E. Murdock's report for the month of December shows the balances in the various road district funds on January 1: Agua Caliente, $204.40; Bloomfield, $137.92; Geyser, $78.90; Forestville, $58.74; Fulton, $315 96; Glen Ellen, $520.75; Knights Valley, $360.99; Lakeville, $553.19; Marin, $276.41; Mendocino, $7.25; Ocean, $433; Magnolia, $2277.15; Penngrove, $1248.94; Redwood, $1152 08; Russian River, $256.81; Gold Ridge, $699.68; San Luis, $235.68; Washington, $436.06; Bellevue, 1483.10.

State and County Taxes.

The taxes on all personal property and one-half on real property for State and county purposes, as will be seen by notice given elsewhere in these columns by Tax Collector Collins, will become delinquent on the last Monday in January at 6 p. m.,—that is to say, on Monday, January 26th. If these taxes are not paid prior to that date 15 per cent will be added to the amount. Tax-payers would do well to paste this in their hats

WARM AND DRY TO STAY WELL

Advice of Noted Authority, Also Gives a Simple Home Prescription.

Now is the time the doctor gets busy, and the patent medicine manufacturers reap the harvest, unless great care is taken to dress warmly and keep the feet dry. This is the advice of an old eminent authority, who says that Rheumatism and Kidney trouble weather is here, and also tells what to do in case of an attack.

Get from any good prescription pharmacy one-half ounce Fluid Extract Dandelion, one ounce Compound Kargon, three ounces Compound Syrup Sarsaparilla. Mix by shaking in a bottle and take a teaspoonful after meals and at bedtime.

Just try this simple home-made mixture at the first sign of Rheumatism, or if your back aches or you feel that the kidneys are not acting just right. This is said to be a splendid kidney regulator, and almost certain remedy for all forms of Rheumatism, which is caused by uric acid in the blood, which the kidneys fail to filter out. Any one can easily prepare this at home and at small cost.

Druggists in this town and vicinity, when shown the prescription stated that they can either supply these ingredients, or, if our readers prefer, they will compound the mixture for them.

Wise Talks by the Office Boy Repeated.

I over heard an old man and his son having a dispute about money matters the other day, and I told them to "leave it to me." Don't you know, you hear and see an awful lot of funny things as you sasshay through life. I saw a sign in a butcher shop once on a big cluster of sausages which read, "No whistling in this shop." I heard a man use the expression, "It was a ground hog case." While in conversation with the boss the other day, and after he had gone I asked the definition of "ground hog." The boss says ground hog is usually "sausage." We don't carry any pork product in this shop but it's a "ground hog case" you get the best there is in any line of goods we carry and there is nothing doubtful about the composition of the goods, either. If an article is sold for all-wool, it's all-wool and wool only. If it's mixed goods they will be represented to you as such—always on their merits.

Everything is guaranteed to be as represented and to suit you to the king's taste. Discount on everything.

Tennyson's Queer Ways.

It was with great difficulty that Professor Hubert Herkomer, the portrait painter, obtained Tennyson's consent for a sitting, but at last he was successful and called at the poet's house. After some little delay the door of the room where the artist was waiting slowly opened, and Tennyson entered with drooping head. He looked most dejected and murmured: "I hate your coming. I can't abide sitting." However, Mr. Herkomer was allowed to remain. Soon after he had retired to his room for the night there came a knock at the door. A head was thrust in and the voice of the poet remarked: "I believe you are honest. Good night."

KEPT HER PROMISE.

She Wasn't Much of a Politician, but She Was Truthful.

Mrs. Eliot sighed so deeply as she took out her hatpins that her husband looked up from the evening paper. "I don't believe I've any bent for politics," she said in response to his inquiring glance. "Every time there's an election of officers of the club I get into some kind of mess, try as I may to avoid it.

"You see, Harry," she continued confidingly, "I don't really care a fig who is in office so long as I'm not. I like all the members very well, and I'd as lief have one as another president or secretary or on committees.

"I have no favorites. I'm truly impartial. But that won't work. If you belong to a woman's club you are forced to sweat and agonize over candidates. You must be partisan or be out with both sides.

"You know Mrs. George has been president for four years, and every year Mrs. Tufts has tried to get Mrs. George out and herself in. About a week ago she came to me and said she was sure of the nomination if I would vote for her. Would I? I thought it over and said I would, for I admire Mrs. Tufts immensely, she is so lovely and charitable.

"Today, just before balloting, Edith Reynolds came to me and said I must vote for Mrs. George. Edith said I owed it to her—you know she helped me make over my blue foulard and canned all those peaches for me when cook burned her hand.

"Everybody wanted Mrs. George, Edith said, and if I voted for her she would get the nomination. I thought it over and said I would vote for her. I admire and respect her very much. She is so witty and forcible when she presides, and she speaks French beautifully, and I thought if everybody wanted her it was only proper that"—

"Do you mean that you promised to vote for both?" interrupted Mr. Eliot.

"Yes; I promised Mrs. Tufts, as I have just said, and I promised Edith because"—

"But you didn't actually vote for both."

"Why, of course I did, Harry. I may not be much of a politician, but I was brought up to keep my word," said Mrs. Eliot, with dignity.—Youth's Companion.

QUEER BEQUESTS.

Odd Notions That Are Aired In Last Wills and Testaments.

Duchess Dudley, dying in 1655, left £500 per annum for the redemption of poor English Christian slaves from the hands of "the barbarous Turk," and in the year 1725 Thomas Belton of Hoxton proved his enmity toward his own kith and kin by cutting off his three sons and his brother Timothy with a shilling apiece, while he showed his sympathy for his distressed countrymen by leaving the bulk of his property, about $125,000, in trust to the Ironmongers' company. One-half of the interest of this large amount he directed should be expended in ransoming British subjects from slavery in Turkey or Barbary.

An old lady of Barton, Lincolnshire, being once benighted on the Lincolnshire wolds, was able to direct her steps by the sound of the curfew bell from St. Peter's church. In grateful remembrance she conveyed a piece of land of thirteen acres to the parish clerk and his successors on condition that they and he ring the bell from 7 to 8 p. m. daily, Sunday excepted, from the carrying of the first load of barley until Shrove Tuesday. The curfew bell is still rung in England in some places in accordance with old bequests.

Some persons had a curious predilection for their own names—a predilection which found vent occasionally in a puerile manner. Thus one Henry Green left his estates to his sister, with the proviso that she should give four green vests lined with green galloon to four poor men every Christmas, and his fellow townsman Gray directed that six "nobles" should be spent annually in providing six old women with vests of gray cloth and 40 shillings in providing three old men with coats of the same material.—London Globe.

Something More Interesting.

The old darky was having his eyes tested for glasses. After the oculist had put up several cards of Roman letters, which the negro vainly endeavored to call off correctly, he looked over at the oculist and asked, with some disgust:

"Whar's de use in lookin' at dem fings?"

"With them I'm trying to find out how far you can see distinctly," returned the eye specialist.

"Waal," declared the old darky, unsatisfied, "dey ain't wuth tryin' t' make out. Put up er watermillion!"—Bohemian.

The Origin of the Holy Stone.

At the reformation, when the Church of St. Nicholas at Yarmouth was despoiled, the carved stones of many of the monuments, both in the church and outside in the graveyard, were shipped off, some to Newcastle to be turned into grindstones and some on board the ships of the royal navy of the day to be used in scouring the decks, whence, it is interesting to know, the seamen's term "holystoning the deck" takes its origin.—London Standard.

Moles as Mesmerists.

Like the squirrel and some other animals, the mole lays up a store of food during the autumn months. A curious and interesting feature in relation to this storage is that the mole does not kill the worms it collects, but stupefies them in such a manner that they do not attempt to escape.—Country Life.

ALL THE WORLD

is a stage, and Ballard's Snow Liniment plays a most prominent part. It has no superior for Rheumatism, stiff joints, cuts, sprains, and all pains. Buy it, try it and you will always use it. Anybody who has used Ballard's Snow Liniment is a living proof of what it does. Buy a trial bottle. 25c, 50c and $1.00. Sold by Simmon's Pharmacy.

Chamber ain's Cough Remedy a Safe Medicine for Children.

In buying a cough medicine for children, never be afraid to buy Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. There is no danger from it, and relief is always sure to follow. It is intended especially for coughs, colds, croup and whooping cough, and there is no better medicine in the world for these diseases. It is not only a certain cure for croup, but, when given as soon as the croupy cough appears will prevent the attack. Whooping cough is not dangerous when this remedy is given as directed. It contains no opium or other harmful drugs, and may be given as confidently to a baby as to an adult. For sale by L. S. Simmons.

CURED LUMBAGO.

A. B. Canman, Chicago, writes March 4, 1903: "Having been troubled with Lumbago, at different times and tried one physician after another, then different ointments and liniments, gave it up all together. So I tried once more, and got a bottle of Ballard's Snow Liniment, which gave me almost instant relief. I can cheerfully recommend it, and you will add my name to your list of sufferers." Sold by Simmons Pharmacy.

Try This For Catarrh.

Free tests are now being supplied by mail to all Catarrh sufferers. There is no expense—no obligation whatever. Dr. Shoop is combining Oil of Eucalyptus, Thymol, Menthol, Oil of Wintergreen, etc., and is incorporating these ingredients into a pure, snow-white cream-like Imported Petrolatum. This Creation—Dr. Shoop's Catarrh Remedy—gives immediate and lasting relief to catarrh of the nose and throat. That all may first test it free, these trial boxes are being mailed without charge, simply to encourage these tests and thus fully demonstrate, beyond doubt, the value of this combination. If Catarrh has extended down to the stomach or bowels, then Dr. Shoop's Restorative must also be used internally if a complete cure is to be expected. Otherwise the Dr. Shoop's Catarrh Remedy will alone be entirely sufficient. Write Dr. Shoop, Racine, Wis. for sample and book. Sold by Druggists everywhere.

The American Author.

The chief thing in the average American novel is the amazing vitality of the author. He writes always at the top of his voice. His strenuousness is unceasing. The reader can almost see the swollen veins on his forehead, the tight drawn mouth and flashing eye. It is do it or die. And he never knows where to stop. With his feverish anxiety to make points he does not seem to realize when he has achieved his purpose and frequently fizzles out ineffectively. He has ideas. He has vast quantities of material. He has a command of language, a fatal fluency that frequently leads to his downfall, for he lacks a sense of values. He lacks self restraint. He is full of tricks and artfulness, but he is not an artist.—London Saturday Review.

Well Preserved.

"I told Miss Knox today," said he, "that the only word that properly described you was 'peach.'"

"Indeed?" replied Miss Bute. "I suppose she said something 'real nice,' as usual?"

"Well, she said: 'I suppose that is the proper word. At any rate, she looks well preserved.'"—Philadelphia Press.

Bobby's Reason.

Little Bobby was saying his prayers at his mother's knee, but so rapidly that she asked him why he did not speak more slowly.

"Because, you know," he replied, "it would keep all the other children waiting."—Lippincott's.

Didn't Find Out.

"So you really attended the lecture last night?"

"Yes."

"What did the lecturer talk about?"

"Well, I'm not sure, for he didn't say."—Lyceumite and Talent.

Chamberlain's Cough Remedy Benefits a City Councilman at Kingston, Jamaica.

Mr. W. O'Reilly Fogarty, who is a member of the City Council at Kingston, Jamaica, West Indies, writes as follows: "One bottle of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy had good effect on a cough that was giving me trouble and I think I should have been more quickly relieved if I had continued the remedy. That it was beneficial and quick in relieving me there is no doubt and it is my intention to obtain another bottle." For sale by L. S. Simmons.
